Turkey and the U.S. Generalized System of Preferences (GSP) Program

What is GSP?

The U.S. GSP program promotes economic growth in the developing world by providing duty-free entry to the U.S. market for goods imported from designated beneficiary developing countries. Approximately 3,500 different products from Turkey are eligible to enter the United States duty-free under the GSP program. U.S. businesses imported $19.9 billion worth of products under the GSP program in 2012, including $1.1 billion from Turkey.

What products are eligible for GSP?

Many items are eligible for GSP duty-free treatment. These include: most manufactured items; inputs used in manufacturing; jewelry; many types of carpets; certain agricultural and fishery products; and many types of chemicals, minerals and marble. Among the products that are not eligible for GSP duty-free treatment are most textiles and apparel; watches; and most footwear, handbags, luggage, and leather products. For further information on which products are eligible for GSP duty-free treatment visit one or both the following websites:

- For a complete list of GSP-eligible articles organized by U.S. Harmonized Tariff Schedule (USHTS) number: http://www.ustr.gov/trade-topics/trade-development/preference-programs/generalized-system-preferences-gsp/gsp-program-i-0.
- For a searchable database USHTS: http://dataweb.usitc.gov/scripts/tariff_current.asp. This database is useful for those who do not know the U.S. Harmonized Tariff System (HTS) number associated with a product. A product's GSP-eligibility can be determined by putting the product's name or a brief description in the search box and clicking "List items." A list of HTS numbers associated with the product will appear. Select the item that best matches the description of the product and click "Detail." On the detail page, scroll down to the section with the heading "Preferential . . . tariff program applications." The first preferential trade program listed is GSP. If the GSP "Status" box says "Eligible: code A" (or A*) then the product is eligible for GSP duty-free treatment.¹

How does an import from Turkey receive GSP duty-free treatment?

A GSP-eligible import must meet the following requirements:

- Must be included on the list of GSP-eligible articles;
- Must be imported into the United States directly from Turkey, without entering the commerce of a third country;

¹ "A" products are eligible for GSP duty-free treatment for all beneficiaries; "A+" products are eligible for GSP only for least-developed beneficiaries, which do not include Turkey; "A*" products are those for which certain GSP beneficiary countries have become ineligible for GSP duty-free treatment. There are A* restrictions on 20 different products imported from Turkey, the list of which can be found at General Note 4 of the USHTS. Products which are not eligible for GSP duty-free treatment will say "Not eligible."

- Must be the growth, product, or manufacture of Turkey, with the cost of the Turkish materials plus the cost of processing equal to at least 35 percent of the product's sales price:

 Imported materials may count toward the 35 percent minimum only if those materials undergo a "double substantial transformation" which means that the imported item is transformed into a new and different article, which is then incorporated into a finished product in Turkey;
- MOST IMPORTANTLY: The U.S. importer must claim GSP duty-free treatment by placing an "A" (or "A*", as appropriate) in front of the U.S. tariff line (HTSUS) number that identifies the imported article on U.S. Customs and Border Protection entry documentation.

Producers and exporters should keep records that describe the production process and costs of production of each good exported under GSP. U.S. Customs and Border Protection has the authority to ask an importer or producer to provide records to prove that the export is eligible for GSP duty-free treatment.

Annual Reviews

Reviews of the GSP program are conducted annually, during which time interested parties may file petitions to modify the list of products that are eligible for duty-free treatment under the GSP program, to modify the GSP status of certain GSP beneficiary developing countries because of country practices, and to request waivers of competitive need limitations (CNLs). The next annual review will be initiated in July 2013.
